Definition of processing activities

With “Attribution”, “Audience Builder” and “Unbotify” adjust GmbH offers a business intelligence platform for app publishers which combines attribution, analyses, fraud prevention and store statistics.

With the general “attribution” product, adjust GmbH offers a business intelligence platform for app publishers which combines attribution, analyses and store statistics. Adjust helps the clients to track marketing performance across all advertising sources such as in-app ads, mobile web ads, email campaigns, Google UAC, Facebook mobile app install ads or QR codes by matching users to campaigns. Adjust supports several attribution methods based on how a user interacts with the advertisement and the quality of their engagement.

With the adjust’s “Audience Builder” you can create laser-like retargeting campaigns by building audiences that the Client can share with its networks. It offers the Client an infinite look back into the Client’s data, a wide array of available filters for users in every vertical, the ability to splice up an audience into groups, integrations with key measurement partners and the ability to share audiences via dynamic links that update in real time.

The “Unbotify” uses user information and device interaction signals to detect fraudulent behaviour (ad fraud).
